Getting along

1 Vocabulary in context

A) LISTEN What are team agreements? Why do remote teams have them? Think of one norm. Then read the article. Is your norm mentioned?

Working with teammates

You're looking forward to joining a new remote team, but will you get along? Before your first sprint, come up with some team agreements about what everyone expects. For example:

- If you have a question, ask it in the channel — not in a DM — before the standup starts.
- If you join a call late, come in muted — don't interrupt the conversation with background noise.
- If you're the last one in a meeting, make sure the recording is on.
- If you use a teammate's approach or solution, mention it in your PR description.

Teammates often argue about async norms. Instead of putting up with bad communication habits, figure out some agreements that work for you, like these:

- If a ticket is done, close it out — don't leave it hanging in the board.
- If you can't finish a task, hand it off before the sprint ends.
- If a teammate goes offline unexpectedly, pick up where they left off.
- If you're done for the day, turn off your notifications so the team knows you're unavailable.

If your teammate's bad habits still drive you crazy and you run out of patience, don't put off talking about it. When a problem comes up, go over things right away. Of course you might find out that you have to give up a few bad habits of your own! But with a little good humor, you'll get over any problems and things should work out.

B) PAIR WORK Complete the expressions in the questions with words from the article. Then take turns asking and answering the questions.

10.- Ever pick _____ a teammate' s unfinished task?

11.- Turn _____ notificatios when you need to focus?

12.- Close tickets _____ as soon as they're done?

13.- Belive most team problems work _____ eventually?

2 Grammar - Using phrasal verbs

A) Figure it out How does the article express the ideas in bold? Rewrite the sentences. Then read the grammar chart.

1.- If you can't finish a task, transfer it to a teammate before the sprint ends.

2.- Instead of tolerating bad communication habits, figure out some agreements.

3.- Don't delay talking about it when a problem appears .

4.- You might find out you have to abandon a few bad habits of your own.

Phrasal verbs

Intransitive phrasal verbs have no object. come in, come up, go over, work out	If a problem comes up, go over it right away.
Some transitive phrasal verbs are separable. close out, give up, hand off, put off, turn off, pick up	Turn off the notifications. OR Turn the notifications off. Turn them off. (NOT ~~Turn off them~~.)
Some transitive phrasal verbs have a fixed word order. get over, go over + sb/sthg, put up with, run out of	You'll get over the problem. I often put up with delays.
Some phrasal verbs also take a preposition. come up with, look forward to, put up with, run out of	If you run out of patience, come up with some new agreements.

IN CONVERSATION . . .

The continuous form is common with phrasal verbs in spoken English. We've been PUTTING OFF that conversation for weeks.

B) Write the words in parentheses in the correct place in the sentences. If there is more than one possible answer, write both answers. Then ask and answer the questions with a partner.

1.- Are you looking to joining a new team this year? (_____) Do you plan to work with anyone new? (_____)

2.- Have you come any team agreements in your current role? (_____) What are they?

3.- Do you always close tickets right away when they're done? (_____)

4.- What problems come in your team? (_____) Do things usually work? (] _____)

5.- Has a teammate ever handed a task late or without context? (_____)

6.- If you had a problem with a teammate's habits, would you put it? (_____) Or would you go things and find a solution? (_____)

7.- Do you ever pick unfinished tasks if you run time? (_____)

C PAIR WORK Agree on the six best team agreements to have. Use a phrasal verb in each agreement. "How about — if you need to step away mid-sprint, always hand off your tasks so nothing gets dropped."
